Second class citizens?

THE UNITED STATES is a country of immigrants. For the most part, the immigrants who have come to this country have done so in search of a better life. They have come from all over the world, and they have brought with them their own cultures, languages, and customs. But in the United States, all of these differences are melted away, and everyone is treated as an equal. This is the American dream, and it is a dream that has inspired millions of people to come to this country.

On Tuesday, the United States Supreme Court heard oral arguments in a case that could have a major impact on the rights of immigrants. The case is called Cheney v. United States District Court, and it involves a challenge to a federal law that requires immigrants to register with the government. The Supreme Court is expected to issue its decision in the coming months.
